BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

James G. Taliaferro was born in Amherst, Virginia, in 1798 and moved to Catahoula Parish, Louisiana in 1815. He practiced law in Harrisburg, La., served as a judge in Catahoula Parish, was a member of the Constitutional Convention in 1852, and a member of the Secession Convention in 1861. Taliaferro was strongly opposed to secession. He served as associate justice in the Louisiana Supreme Court, 1866-1876.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The microfilm contains copies of typewritten and handwritten letters from Taliaferro, principally to his daughter. Letters discuss Taliaferro's involvement with the Secession Convention (1861); politics during the Civil War (1865); the work of the Louisiana Supreme Court (1866-1874); Louisiana politics and government (1861-1874); flooding of the Mississippi River (1874); fires, cholera, and economic conditions in New Orleans; the visit of the Emperor of Brazil to New Orleans (1876); and matters pertaining to the management of Taliaferro's plantation and local affairs in Catahoula Parish.
